

Indian Institute of Technology Palakkad

Department of Mathematics

MA 5009 (Ordinary differential equations)

2024-2025 (August-November Semester)

Instructor: Dr Gopikrishnan C R

Office: 10, D03-FF (Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam Block).

Honour code and ethical conduct

Each student registered for MA 5009 must adhere to the following ethical practices in conjunction with the general rules and regulations of ethical conduct and academic integrity of Indian Institute of Technology Palakkad (see Rules and Regulations (2024 onwards) (Masters)).

- ▶ Dishonesty and cheating in any form including but not limited to the use of cheat sheets, copying in quizzes and other examinations (from online (AI tools included exhaustively) and offline sources), sharing answers (in part or full) with other students during quizzes and other examinations is a serious academic offence, which invites institutional disciplinary actions.
- ▶ Plagiarism is the verbatim copy of wordings, ideas, figures, graphs, charts, and other materials from another source without duly acknowledging the author/creator. While you are encouraged to participate in academic discussions, each submission to this course must be an original work by each individual. Additionally, you are expected to declare the discussions conducted including aspects such as with whom and the extent.
- ▶ Every single bit of material from an external source must be duly cited. The citations must be pinpoint. For instance, if you use a Theorem A from book B, do not just say 'Theorem A is from book B'. Give chapter, section, and exact page numbers.
- ▶ Plagiarism also includes donating your work to be copied by your friends. Note that discussions does not include lending your course materials to other peers. In the case of sharing to explain course contents, both the parties are supposed to declare this in their submissions.
- ▶ Attendance is compulsory. The student is allowed to write the examination only if a minimum of 85% attendance is secured. There are forty five lectures in this course. If the student skips more than six classes, then the student will not be allowed to write the final examination.
- ▶ The examinations will be offline. Each student is expected to behave responsibly during the exams. No communication with other students is allowed during the exams and quizzes.

- ▶ Each student must submit a signed declaration mentioning the references and discussions along with every submission.
- ▶ The honour code pledge, see below, needs to be signed by the student and submitted to the instructor or teaching assistants at the beginning of the course.

Honour code pledge

I read, understand, and acknowledge the honour code for MA5009. I hereby, confirm that I will adhere to it through the entirety of the course. I understand that not following the honour code leads to penalty and further disciplinary actions.

Name:

Signature with date: